Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Etchberger are at Atlantic City.

The children of the Ruppert Home, Anacostia, were the guests of Mrs. Andreas Loeffler at her home on Brightwood avenue yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock. The occasion marked Mrs. Loeffler's fifty-fourth birthday.

The late Andreas Loeffler, her husband, was closely associated with the management of the institution during his lifetime. Mrs. Loeffler's death his wife and sons have always been foremost in the work for the advancement of the interests of the home.

Some months ago Mrs. Loeffler promised the children they were to have an outing at her home on the occasion of her birthday, and for many days, this, the wee tot, as well as the larger boys and girls, looked forward to the event with many expressions of pleasurable anticipation.

Early yesterday afternoon Mrs. Loeffler sent a special car to Anacostia to bring the children to her home, Ernest Loeffler, one of her sons, being in charge, as he was for the return trip.

Fifty-two children, under the direction of President Imhof and Supt. Meyer, then rode through the city and out Brightwood avenue to the home of Mrs. Loeffler.

Mrs. Loeffler met them, and after the children had left their hats in the parlors they were taken to the back lawn, where the lined Anacostia boys fully spread tables and ate to their hearts content.

The members of the Ladies' Sewing Society of the orphanage, of which Mrs. Loeffler is the president, together with Mrs. Thomas E. Jarrell and Mrs. William F. Gude, daughters of the hostess, helped to look after the youngsters.

After the repeat President Imhof, in a short address, thanked Mrs. Loeffler for the pleasure she had given the children, and also wished her many more happy birthday anniversaries.

Later potato and sack races and other events, for both boys and girls, were enjoyed. As each winner of an event was announced they went to Mrs. Loeffler, who sat near a great assortment of prizes, and received one.

Later Mrs. Loeffler announced that she had provided for each of the children, and as they filed past her she presented those who had failed to win a prize with different prizes. Those present included Mrs. L. C. Brooks and Mrs. Wm. M. Smith, who were present in a number of their friends at cards Monday afternoon last on the lawn and adjoining clubhouse of the Columbia Golf Club.
